ANNEX I

1. The logo of the Chancellery of Orders and Medals of the Republic is a stylized oak leaf, in the national colours of red and black, which is inscribed and frames at the same time a shield, stylized as unfinished, with a black field and thin red borders. In the right corner of the shield (left for the reader) appears a six-pointed gilded star with fine red contours.

The left side of the shield is outlined from the most extreme point by a green laurel leaf. On the right of the logo is placed the acronym "KUMR", in red, and below it, separated by a black horizontal line, the full name of the institution also in black: Chancellery of Orders and Medals of the Republic.

The symbol of the Chancellery of Orders and Medals of the Republic meets the criteria of a logo, including a partially heraldic appearance and reading, which enrich it from a structural point of view and connect it with the best tradition of national symbols and public honours in general. The oak and laurel leaves traditionally represent dignity, glory, courage, and bravery. Their interweaving in the form of a crown is one of the symbols of orders and medals in Europe and the world and is commonly used as suspension links between the medallion of the decoration and its ribbon. The gilded star in the right corner of the shield, that is, in its privileged part from a heraldic point of view, represents the six-pointed star of the seal of Gjergj Kastrioti - Skanderbeg. It also symbolizes the individual merit and the special value of service to the community as an illuminating and inspiring example for the nation.
